

Another Raid,
Another Ruin

Humanity can grow accustomed to anything—even to bombing raids that turn idle into flaming wreckage and citizens into corpses. Madrid has grown thus accustomed. Crews like the one shown at work here are working night and day in the joyous Spanish capital, digging into piles of mangled debris to clear the streets and to feed the injured and dead. The last raid of rebel bombers before this picture was taken claimed upwards of 100 lives.

Eject All Aliens From Spain, Says Note by Germany

Berlin, Jan. 8.—Germany proposed today all foreign participants be ejected from the Spanish civil war, "including political agitators," a phrase apparently directed at Communists.

Roosevelt Has Multi-Billion U.S. Budget

Washington, Jan. 8.—President Roosevelt said a multi-billion dollar budget for the United States Congress today in a message bluntly leaving a complete balance of federal income and outgo up to industrial re-employment efforts.

With certain exceptions, Mr. Roosevelt said his new budget "is in balance" and would remain so if later relief requirements do not exceed an estimated $1,871,121,000.

Then, forecasting a new public debt peak next June, he set $5,000,000 despite sharply increased income, the president added.

He also contended that if every employer or potential employer will undertake during the next six months to give employment to persons now receiving government help, the national budget can thereafter be kept definitely in balance.

"Without such co-operation on the part of the employers, the question of a balanced budget for 1933 must of necessity remain an empty slogan," he said.

The president said that this government does not propose next year, any more than during the past four years, to allow American families to starve.

50 INJURED AS SEATTLE TRAM JUMPS TRESTLE

Seattle, Jan. 8.—About 50 West Seattle residents were injured—some badly—when a trolley car jumped tracks on a trestle car, smashed against a concrete wall and stopped on the track of a 50-foot fall to the ground.

The trolley was a 100-ton car, driven by a 100-ton engine. The car operator, Roy C. Smith, was killed by the crash. The engine was damaged and the car was overturned.

Man, 66, Hobbles Three Miles With Fractured Limb

Webb City, Mo., Jan. 8.—W. D. Rogers, 66, was alone in his car when he was struck by a car. A three feet on his leg, fracturing it in two places.

With his leg Rogers fastened a pair of crutches, using crutches of tree limbs for shoulder braces. He hobbled a mile and a half to a farm where he was taken to hospital.

Inaugural Ships Bombard Cities

Perpignan, France, Jan. 8.—The Spanish towns of Port Bou and Colliure, just south of the city, were shelled by the Italian navy. An hour's bombardment of the towns and out to sea. Estimated the damage was unknown.

Provincial Government Offers Young People 25 Scholarships

Aiming at the encouragement of agricultural education among boys and girls on the farms, Hon. W. M. Chant, minister of agriculture on Friday announced 25 scholarships available to young people of Alberta. The scholarships are offered by the Board of Trustees of the province or the agricultural faculty of the University of Alberta.

The scholarships will entitle winners to attend one of the agricultural schools of the province or the agricultural faculty of the University of Alberta.

VALUE OF $50 EACH

Ten scholarships of $100 each to boys completing the second year at one of the agricultural schools, to be applied toward the expenses of an agricultural course at the University of Alberta.

Sixteen scholarships of $75 each to girls completing the second year at one of the agricultural schools, to be applied toward the expenses of a second year at the school. No. 2, one boy and girl having the highest standing at the University of Alberta.

No. 3, one boy and girl having the highest standing in the following junior club activities: high school club, and dairy club, while club beef club and dairy club.

GREAT IT IS EXPLORED, said the minister, "that this policy will prove to be a great stimulus in connection with the winter." Continued on Page 2, Col. 1.

Final Victory to Be Assured Generalissimo—Two Months More and All Will Be Over

Made—Much War Supplies Shipped

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The Paris Gazette's Berlin correspondent reported today Italy and Germany have decided to give the Spanish insurgent General Francisco Franco such intense support that "two months from now nobody will be able to challenge his final victory."

Troops withdrawn from provincial barracks at Neureuphrat, Lauenburg and Pader are among the German "volunteers" sent to Spain, the Journal said. It was understood that other contingents were from Munich, but this could not be confirmed the newspaper added.

"Substantial quantities of war material have been dispatched to France in recent days," the newspaper asserted. "They were placed in the care of German officials, who will assure their delivery."

Murderous Pressure Brought On Madrid

MADRID, Jan. 8.—With German and Moroccan troops bringing murderous pressure to bear on government lines west of Madrid, the beleaguered capital last night was in the most perilous position since the attack began October 28.

In the vital Pinar de San Blas area, the last fighting line of the international brigade and people's militia backed under artillery fire and infantry charges supported by armored cars.

Spanish forces claimed to have shattered a wedge through the government defense, isolating Barajas airport. It was said that where it was denied here, where it was said communications were still open with the Sierra Guadarrama sector.

Efforts were made last night to speed evacuation of women and children.

Ginger Is Hostess At Chilly Party

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8.—The mere fact her home was not infested did not deter Ginger Rogers from giving a party in it this week. There were no guests, but each guest was equipped with a flashlight. Although a fire alarm fire blared in the fireplace, all shivered; there was no glass in the windows.

BONDHOLDERS MUST BE FAIR SAYS PREMIER

Interest Reduction Must Be Faced Impartially Delegation Told

Until bondholders have faced the issue of interest reduction fairly, it is not opportune for him to express his attitude toward the exchange of provincial bonds now held by the city for city bonds now held by the province, Premier James A. Hargrave declared on Friday, when asked to comment on this phase of a submission made to him by a committee representing the city council and taxpayers' protective association.

Taxation, rates of interest on bonds and the general question of relief, formed the basis of the entire discussion.

Asked to comment on a phase of the submission which dealt with the granting of opportunities to go out under the farm settlement scheme or works projects, to single bondholders unemployed, the premier declared that the province had no option in the matter of relief, but agreed as approved by the Dominion, applied only to the unemployed, and therefore the province had no option to be able by the Dominion decision.

It was urged by the committee that some adjustment would have to be made. The whole was clearly a matter of stipulation.

There is no desire on the part of the government to show any particularity in the matter of relief, he said.

The delegation was introduced by D. M. Mullen, M.L.A. for Edmonton. Sitting with the Premier in the delegation were Hon. Charles Cooke.

France in Up-or-At New Move

London today said 3,000 armed Germans had landed in Spanish Morocco and that the French navy was also leaving for Spanish waters "in case" it is needed.

French officials announced it was "impossible" for France to permit such an incursion, and began consultations with the British government. In London a special cabinet meeting was called.

GERMANS ARE FORTIFYING SPANISH MOROCCO, FRENCH ADMINISTRATION IS TOLD

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The French Moroccan administration in a report has informed the French government Germany is conducting a large-scale military and commercial invasion of Spanish Morocco, a high authority said today.

The report, this authority asserted, said German marines had landed at the Spanish Moroccan port of Ceuta and that the German army was spending for the arrival of "large bodies" of German troops.

It continued, he said, that German engineers were supervising the construction of heavy fortifications in Ceuta which will make it a serious rival to Gibraltar and a part of many commercial concessions were granted to Germany, notably with regard to the Mallia iron mines.

The Spanish insurgent army officer of German extraction, whose name was given as Col. Reigebor, was asserted to be in command of the zone and to be consulting the German consul in Tetuan on every move, the authority said.

The report, pointed out, he asserted, Germany has broken three international treaties by the alleged action.

Under the Treaty of Versailles, Germany announced any and all claims in Morocco.

Spain, under the Franco-Spanish treaty, was forbidden expressly to allow foreign troops to set foot in Spanish Morocco.

The Franco-British treaty of 1904, continued, it by Spain, forbade the construction of fortifications in Ceuta and Gibraltar, which had long existed.

The new fortifications under German supervision, the report said according to this authority, are on a much greater scale than in the works.

Haroun at Raschid had nothing on J. TRAPPING QUIZ HEARS TRIBUTE PAID TO INDIANS

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—A conservator of game Indian trappers have compared with their white competitors in the opinion of game experts who attended the provincial-conservation wild life conference which ended here yesterday. Delegates paid tribute to the Indians and complained of the destructive habits of white men.

The matter came up in the course of a discussion on the possibility of trapping game on a certain area and a trapper could establish a property right to a certain area and keep other trappers out.

It turned out the Indians in certain districts had settled the problem in their own informal fashion. They had evolved a system under which certain areas were the recognized trapping preserves of certain families and invaders were dealt with in effective, if rough, fashion.

The conference was called by Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and technical education, in addressing the opening session, said the Indians paid out in return for Indians last year was clearly related to the depletion of fur-bearing animals and the difficulties of making a living by trapping.

Need for better education of children concerning wild life conservation was stressed. An entirely new point of view with respect to wild animals and birds should, it was urged, be presented to children in the schools.

The fur of greatest aggregate value in Canada is silver fox, followed by muskrat, according to figures presented by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Production of fur by fur farms amounts to 10 per cent of the whole and is rapidly increasing.

Collapse Of Big British Film Firm Is Forecasted

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The Daily Film Review, a trade journal, said today that at least two of Britain's "big five" banks had decided not to loan more money for film production by British companies even when the loans are guaranteed by insurance underwriters.

The paper prophesied the "implosion" of a receiver for one of the most prominent and long established British units.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Cost of setting the foreign accounts of Canada's post office department were practically one-half this year through closer co-operation of the department with the Bank of Canada, it was learned today.

DETROIT, Jan. 8.—General Motors officials said a "wild-cat" strike started today at the Chrysler Motor Car Company where 10,000 men are employed. Reports said several hundred men in the plant, a General Motors unit.

WORLD FAMOUS PIANIST HERE FOR RECITAL

Paying his first visit to the prairie west and remote with enthusiasm for it, Josef Hofmann, world-renowned pianist, is a guest at the Macdonald Hotel. He will appear in recital at the Empire theatre on Friday night under the auspices of the Women's Musical Club. He came here from Winnipeg by way of Calgary.

Mr. Hofmann is thrilled at being in the west and is especially delighted at being in the vicinity of Jasper, Banff and other noted Rocky Mountain points.

Mr. Hofmann, who thrilled the musical world with his amazing performances at 10 years old, is one of the few present-day examples of prodigies who fulfilled all hopes and expectations. Now at 50, he stands unsurpassed among the giants of the day.

Many Edmontonians thrilled with millions of others a week ago last Sunday when they heard him as the piano soloist with the great New York Philharmonic Symphony Society at Carnegie Hall, New York, under the baton of John Barbirolli.

Some after his arrival here Mr. Hofmann was greeted by Mrs. Vernon Burford, president of the Women's Musical Club, Mrs. Ernest Meade and others.

CORNER HOODOO FOR MOTORISTS

Corner of 107th street and 59th avenue was hoodooed Thursday when a traffic accident occurred there. At 5:30 p.m. cars driven by Arthur Allaire, of Jarvis, and Norman Smith, 213 C.P.R. building collided and Smith received two "shiners" as the vehicle crumpled off.

Earlier in the day the same intersection was the scene of a wreck when cars driven by Walter F. Kuhl, M.P. for Jasper-Edson and Mrs. Marie Dolbowitz smashed together. Mr. Kuhl, incidentally, has assumed complete responsibility for this accident.

Glasgow Votes No On Conception

GLASGOW, Jan. 8.—A motion advising conception of Britain's military strength instead of voluntary enlistment was overwhelmingly defeated today at a meeting here of the Council of the British Union of Fascists and Conservative Association.

6-YEAR STRIKE FOR HEIRS TO MILLIONS ENDS

NANCY, France, Jan. 8.—The six-year search for the legal heirs of the $20,000,000 tobacco fortune of the late H. C. Carter, who died in 1929, was ended today by the discovery here of an ancestor named Myrta, who is a fourth cousin to the late H. C. Carter.

WEATHER TO REMAIN MILD

Improving considerably after sagging under the zero mark, Edmonton's weather set the thermometer up to 10 above at 3 p.m. Thursday to register the highest reading for the day. From that time until 3 a.m. Friday, the temperature continued steadily to reach a low reading of 3 above, and then rose again to 8 above by 8 a.m. Friday. The forecast for Saturday is a high of 10 and a low of 3. The forecast for Sunday is a high of 10 and a low of 3.

AMUSEMENTS

CAPITOL
The difficult task of learning some five hundred Chinese words for her latest triumph, "Showaway," today at the Capitol for the last time, proved loads of fun, rather than tedious work to Shirley Temple. The picture was completed, Shirley, with the help of her Chinese teacher, carried on a conversation in a restricted vocabulary.

After a few water-skiing questions, Shirley asked the boy if he knew any English words.

The boy raised one finger, hesitated a moment, then blurted out, in stammering English:

"Wee-wee Cantor."

Robert Young and Alice Faye play the romantic love in "Showaway" and the rest of Shirley's featured cast includes Eugene Pallette, Helen Westley, Arthur Treacher, J. Edward Bromberg and Astrid Allmyr. William A. Seiler directed.

EMPIRE
Love, murder and comedy form a contrasting combination in the new feature, "The Longest Night," now showing at the Empire.

This novel picture is placed entirely in a great department store. The comic effects are amazing and the plot is entirely new and original in the light of police activities in the city.

A gang of department store bandits is blocked, in fact caught, as the result of a clever ruse. The brilliant actress and the son of the store owner, who is a police officer, of course, murder, mystery, romance, all in the picture.

Scene in the running story, Florence Rice and Robert Young have the leading roles.

Feature is a western, "Winds of the Wasteland," with John Wayne.

Frequent Scrubbing Keeps Hand Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

Some would be amazed recently to learn that a man has only to look at a woman's hands and into a mirror to see that their respective ages to a year. That's rather a mean crack at the fair sex, isn't it?

It's probably true that you can tell a woman's age by looking into a mirror, but I don't think it's true any longer that a woman's hands are a dead giveaway of her actual age. For women have been taught to "conceal" their age, and they try to keep their hands as youthful in appearance as they do their faces.

As a rule, it is on the grooming and polishing of their nails that women lavish most of their attention. But, of course, it is commendable. But too many women seem to forget that the hands need a good scrubbing every day.

Too many, I am afraid, do their hand scrubbing with soap and water, and then they use the soft, fluffy towel to dry their hands. This is a mistake. The soft towel will only rub the skin red and raw, and you will know.

BAND BRUSH HELPS
There is one more band brush on the market, however, that should help to do away with the blisters and chafing that result from the use of a soft towel. The back of one of these brushes is made of a fine, smooth material, and it is like a round ball that fits into the palm of the hand.

When you rub it down, the rolls automatically on its side, allowing the bristles to rub gently against the skin. And this is an advantage, for the bristles are made of a material that is soft enough to relieve the ordinary blisters and chafing that result from the use of a soft towel.

The other type of brush looks like the old type that turtles are lucky to get out of. The bristles are made of a material that is soft enough to relieve the ordinary blisters and chafing that result from the use of a soft towel.

A well-made hand brush really is a necessity. It is a good thing to have in the bathroom, and it is a good thing to have in the bedroom. It is a good thing to have in the kitchen, and it is a good thing to have in the living room.

Every woman should have a hand brush in her bathroom. It is a good thing to have in the bathroom, and it is a good thing to have in the bedroom. It is a good thing to have in the kitchen, and it is a good thing to have in the living room.

Employment For All Plan Didn't Work

BUFFALO, N.Y. Jan. 8.—Joe Hume Gardner, president of an iron and steel company, who decided recently to hire every man applying for a job, said today that his plan of "relief" just wouldn't work.

He said that he had given jobs to 100 men, but only seven "stuck it out."

When using a hand brush to clean your dirty hands, however, be sure that you use only a pure, bland soap with it. Harsh, caustic soaps are too hard on the hands, and tend to dry and crack the skin. The really good soap must be free from any excess of alkali. It must be a neutral product in which the oil and alkali are completely combined.

A high grade of pure castile soap is ordinarily excellent for cleaning the hands, and there are many pure vegetable oil soaps that can be safely used. When selecting a hand soap, look for a product that should look for is a product that is soft, smooth and velvety.

Listen Inn

Bruce E. Holder, director of "Pan-fare" popular Monday night variety show, is keeping his eye on the up-and-coming young musician at Macdonald's Hotel, Skidmore, who shows promise of becoming a contributor to the fields of light music.

The young composer is Charles Hatcher, 22 years of age, whose home is in Newfoundland. His work, which impressed the orchestra director, was "You Can't Get On Me." It was given its first public presentation in a recent "Pan-fare" broadcast and many commentators have been received at the local Cdn. studio regarding it.

Previous to the broadcast of the number on the Canadian network, all young Hatcher's compositions (and been confined to the Cdn. network of the historical school, being fed into the hands of the composer's talents were brought to Holder's attention during the university's annual festival a few weeks ago, at which the "Pan-fare" architect was supplying the music.

Among the many thousands of letters accumulated during three consecutive years of broadcasts on the Western network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, more is more prior to Messrs. MacGraw and Draville, which the character of the weekly presentation of "Woodhouse and Hawkins" from Calgary, into a letter received recently from a listener in northern Alberta, Hatcher wishing the lady continued success it told of the father of the family who suffered the loss of his sight from an accident a few years ago and how he managed to make much of the week's daily of Winnipeg.

First Aid To the Ailing House

By N. R. Williams

An artistic friend of mine recently made a slight change in the decoration of a bedroom that added very greatly to attraction and beauty.

The wallpaper of the room was a dark green with a design of roses. The work of the room was a dark green with a design of roses. The work of the room was a dark green with a design of roses.

In the decoration of a room, the work is greatly simplified by taking the door off the hinges and laying it on chairs or boxes to bring it to a convenient height. Usually, the two parts of a door hinge are held together by a pin running down from the top. These pins are sometimes loose enough to be taken out by the fingers. Should they stick, they can be driven upward by a hammer and a screw driver.

Question: I have just put a new galvanised hot water tank in my basement. It can be heated by gas, and I would like to have it connected to the main gas line. For economy of fuel, I want to have hot water, the tank and be insulated. Insulating jackets for tanks of standard size are on the market. The outside can be finished with house paint.

Mr. Williams regrets that circumstances will not allow the answering of letters. But whenever possible, specific questions will be answered through this column.

Bulletin Patterns

By Anne Adams

It takes a lot of time to make a dress. It takes a lot of time to make a dress. It takes a lot of time to make a dress.

Charm Is the Principal Bait That Draws

Substantial Men To the Altar and Makes

Them Happy and Satisfied Husbands

THE ROMANCE of the former King Edward and Mrs. Simpson may have been full of headaches and heartaches for those most intimately concerned in it, but it has been the balm of Gilead for countless thousands of women who have received the benefit of being shown that there are other charms more potent than money and beauty with which to enthrall men.

It is a good thing that the world has a monument as high as Wally, it would no more than repay the gratitude they owe her.

For here is a woman who is middle-aged and who even in her girlhood was never more than "nice" looking, yet she has been the modern times passed by all the rosiest garden of roses to a place of distinction in the world. All the best of the world flashed their bright eyes and flattered their pulchritude before him in vain. He passed up the good-looking for the one who was a good thing that the world has a monument as high as Wally, it would no more than repay the gratitude they owe her.

We have been so long accustomed to thinking that women's chief attraction for men is youth and beauty that it has rather stunned us to find out that a woman can be as valuable as an asset to a man's life and cream complexion or naturally fair hair. Yet this need not have surprised us. For if we had observed more closely we would have noticed that while men rave over "Miss America" or "Miss Europe" and call bouquets at her feet, they are loath about offering her a wedding ring. And that a plain girl with the comeliest hair in her country, and with her hair in curly ringlets, is a more attractive living picture, if she has no other attribute than just being a household ornament.

Also, it would be borne in upon us that the women we have known whose husbands were still in love with them at 50 had not hid their beauty by keeping a boyish figure, or having their faces lined and their hair dyed and looking like Nappers, but by being jolly good companions who were sympathetic and understanding, and had the knack of cheering up and making him forget his troubles at the end of a wretched day.

In reality, it is a thousand times more important what is inside of a girl's head than what is outside of it if she wants to make a hit with men. For all men want to be understood, and they will not understand a girl who has the wit to do this will never lack for dates and she can snap their fingers in the face of all the beautiful but dumb blue-ribbon winners in the world.

The girls who can keep a conversation going and who always have something bright and funny to say, the girls whose voice laughs and who are spontaneous in their remarks and who make a girl who says the right thing to the right man—take Tom about his new automobile, John about the grocery trade and Sam about his gold mine—the girls who have the trick of getting their man started on the topic of most interest to him and who listen with a rapt expression while he discourses about the hobbies or his business, has what it takes to make a hit with men.

Cherfulness, intelligence, intuition, tact, subtle flattery are the lethal weapons in a woman's armory of charms. If she has these, she is sure of getting her man and her looks do not matter. She must be gay, for men crave laughter. She must be interesting to talk to. She must listen intently when he tells a man that he is a doctor and then to buck him up. She must know how to rub his back and how to make him feel like a king. She must be able to make a man feel like a happy combination of Henry Ford, Clark Gable and Gene Tunney—and that she is the only woman who ever really understood and appreciated him.

I am not denying for a minute that men are attracted by a pretty face, but that is all a girl has if she isn't enough. If she is dull and a bore and has no other qualities, she is a waste of space. A man who is occupied with admiring her face when she has no time to comment on how handsome he is, he leaves her for some woman who will ask him how he escaped getting into the money. If she makes a stupid gloomy home he will leave from it to the bright lights. For while beauty may draw men with a siren's call, at the post says, it doesn't hold them unless it is backed up with brains.

The palm maid of all women is Katherine, the legend tells us, saved her husband from a husband addicted to suicide by telling him a story that she had off with the most exciting novel what came next. That plan still works.

More Jobs To Be Available In '37, Alderman Thinks

Anticipating a general improvement in employment conditions during 1937, Ald. Elsie Bland on Monday urged employers to lay off employees on a temporary basis. She stated that the unemployment problem is a city-wide one and that the city should be prepared to meet the need for a person who would be appointed as an employment officer in charge of the bureau, his duties being defined by commissioners.

Ald. East, who is sponsoring the proposal, said that after serving for a year in the city relief committee and as a city appointee on the general board of the city, he was convinced that the city should have a bureau of employment. The bureau would be a permanent branch of the city service.

Commissioner R. J. Gibb, referring to one difficulty which might crop up in cases where city departments needed persons for positions, pointed out that in some instances it might be more advantageous not to restrict the right of choice of men for such jobs.

He explained that, as specialists, trained persons might be required for one of the utility departments, and he believed that in such cases a guarantee should be taken of a recommendation by a departmental head for the employment of a particular person for that work.

Premier William Aberhart will be the speaker at the Edmonton Prohibition Bazaar at the Strand Theatre here on Sunday evening, marking his first appearance at the conference for more than a month.

The bazaar was held for the first time in 1936, and the proceeds were used for the relief of the unemployed.

M'GEER GIVES ADDRESS HERE NEXT MONDAY

M.P. and former Vancouver Mayor Will Speak at Combined Meeting

In route to Ottawa for the opening of the next session of the House of Commons, G. M. McGeer, M.P., former mayor of Vancouver, and widely known economist and platform speaker, will arrive in Edmonton on Monday night and on Tuesday at 12:30 will address a combined luncheon meeting of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis Club in the main dining room of the Macdonald hotel.

Mr. McGeer will speak on "Recovery in the British Empire," his facts being gleaned on a recent visit to Great Britain, where he conferred with parliamentary and business leaders in the British Isles, and also with leading representatives of the various departments of the government.

The meeting, which is open to all persons, will be held at 12:30 p.m. on Tuesday. The luncheon will be served at 1:30 p.m. and the speaker will be introduced by the chairman of the meeting, Mr. J. H. G. Macdonald.

Mr. McGeer is a member of the House of Commons, and has been a member since 1921. He was mayor of Vancouver from 1921 to 1924, and has since been a member of the House of Commons.

INJURIES ARE FATAL TO TWO LOCAL WOMEN

Die in Hospital as Result of Accidents on City Streets

Death, believed to be due to injuries received in accidents, claimed two women in the city, late Thursday and early Friday.

Mrs. Josephine Pittelough, 6049 Jasper avenue, died at 4 a.m. Friday in the Macdonald hospital, where she was taken after being struck down by a street car east of the city limits on Thursday evening. She is the wife of Frank Pittelough, operator of the Macdonald hotel, and is the mother of two children.

Mrs. Chambers was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, which was struck by an auto driven by Pete Rasmussen at the intersection of 131 avenue and 30 street. Mrs. Chambers received injuries to her side but was not believed at the time to be in a critical condition. It has been reported that she had been suffering a heart condition.

The Cause of Eye Diseases

By Jackson Bros. Optometrist, J. E. Thomas, R.O.

It has been advanced and proven that certain is the one great cause of eye diseases. That diseases of the eye which cause blindness are caused by imperfect circulation of blood and the resulting lack of oxygen.

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Idea Spreading Urgent Needs It Is Possible

GRADUALLY the conviction that government has something to offer is spreading across Canada. It has already been mentioned once on the floor of the Dominion house and there's every indication that it will come up again and be given more serious attention. At first glance this seems to many people to be nothing more than an effort to saddle another responsibility on an already overburdened government, but on second consideration it appears in a much different light. No government, democratic or provincial, has any more serious duty than that of doing its utmost for the welfare of its people; their health, their mental outlook and general peace of mind.

Apart from providing financial security, the government can hardly find anything that will provide the mass of people with such healthy interests, clear recreation and general contentment like sports will. Ninety-nine per cent of all your cranks, nuts, criminals, wild-eyed radicals and such disturbing elements are people who do not indulge in any sports.

No physiological argument is needed to prove that when you are in the pink of condition your life is a merry old game. It is likewise true that when you are weary and run-down the whole picture looks bleak and you snarl at your neighbor for no reason at all. One of the major reasons England is able to severely punish national and international crises without revolting and riots is that the English are perhaps the world's most ardent sportsmen. When an apparently hopeless defeat falls, they simply knock off and relax at some sport for a while. When they come back some one and logical solution is usually found. Under the same circumstances, countries without benefit of sport generally resort to bullets.

Furthermore it has been repeatedly proved that ample facilities for sport is the greatest safeguard that can be provided for a nation's youth.

Here Are Logical Lines For Action

MOST legislators will agree with the above outline, but they do not see why government action is necessary. Here are a few major reasons. There is not a city or town in western Canada that has anything like adequate sport facilities. The few gymnasia that are in existence are tragically inadequate. There are no swimming pools, skating rinks, and playing fields. Present facilities are not enough for a fraction of one per cent of our population. Furthermore those that are available are crotchily beyond the reach of the very people who need them most. This is because they have to be provided and maintained by individuals banding together.

All governments are slowly legislating toward shorter hours of labor, but little thought is being given to providing opportunities for the proper use of this increasing leisure. It may become a deadly idleness unless handled in a constructive way. Cultural development in the arts and so on is admirable, but unfortunately it does not appeal to the great majority. They crave action and thrills. Sport is the answer.

In its first half-hearted discussion of sport, the Dominion government toyed with a suggestion of a controlling commission or department of some sort. This is just what sport does not want. There is too much officialdom and red tape in it already.

But what sport must have is financial assistance. Let the Dominion and provincial governments make definite contributions annually to permanent sport facilities such as arenas, stadiums, gymnasiums, and so on. Do not squander any more money sending teams of athletes travelling around the world—at least not until we have the facilities we need here at home. Furthermore, these contributions must be for health and welfare. They can be easily classified as appropriations for health and welfare. In fact, every dollar spent to encourage sport will yield more in health than ten dollars spent in drug and medicine.

Canada's real expenditure alone would go a long way toward reducing our shortage of sport facilities if the recipients were obliged to work out their relief on needed buildings and fields. Why can't arenas, stadiums and so be made public works?

The Dominion government that makes it possible for Edmonton to have a modern up-to-date arena will make a greater and more deeply appreciated contribution than any other government has ever done so far as the average citizen is concerned.

Three Good Scraps Top Boxing Here On Tuesday

Three feature bouts that promise a rousing night of fistie thrills atop the professional boxing card which Fred McSparran will present at the Memorial Hall here Tuesday night. In addition to the three main events, there will be three smart-looking preliminary bouts which will make a grand total of 24 rounds for the fans.

In the main event Eddie McSparran faces his toughest battle to date when he tangles with Young Tunney in a ten-round bout. Tunney is Emil Louis' brother and raised as the latter fighter of the two. Emil is training him especially to cope with McSparran's style and to beat Emil the day after the fight which he fought here in December. Both are middleweights.

Young and Grayson. The semi-final is another natural that fans have been hoping to see. It is a contest between Young and Grayson, two of the best fighters in the recent past.

Redwater Aces. Redwater Aces will meet the Tigers on Tuesday night in a day on the Redwater rink and defeat them by a 7-6 score in the final.

Both teams did splendid work making combinations perfect, but some errors are to be acknowledged on the part of both teams. The Aces and the Tigers, through his absence, the Aces were defeated, while the Tigers won the game by a 7-6 score in the final.

U.S. CANADIANS TOY WITH BICYCLE KING

Detroit Takes 4-2 Win Over Crippled Amers; Gain Lead

Torchy Peden Succeeds Reggie McNamara As Bicycle King
Of 27 Six-Day Contests; The Race To Nowhere
Once Sped At 76 M.P.H.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The squirrely-whirl sport of six-day bike racing, having lost its grandest, most colorful campaigner in Reggie McNamara, the "Iron Man," probably will see his successor crowned before the end of the current season.

Whoever else you choose to say about the race to nowhere, it is as colorful as a house-painter's overall; that is, it was until McNamara retired last night, at 46, the greatest, most broken-up figure the sport has known in years.

Who'll be the pedaler to succeed him and add that little something to color that McNamara lent to pull crowds into the arenas in New York, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, and other cities on the circuit? It's our guess that William "Torchy" Peden, the big boy from Vancouver, B.C., is the man.

"He isn't human, he's a horse," is the way John Chapman, chief impresario of the merry-go-round sport put it the first time he saw the sorcerer-riding star. And it's the way the crowd, with a nonchalant pose, his bike, that says so.

Great Crowd Pleaser
Torchy has ridden 27 six-day bike victories in the last eight years, already having passed McNamara in number of triumphs. A driving madman, he has been put on a pedestal of which only one of his 235 pounds is capable.

However, Torchy has had the misfortune to be teamed with a much weaker partner, as the best grandstanding and toothy smile made him a favorite with the crowd.

His elevation to the peak of popularity has kind some derelicting by the great riding of the German team, Jose Luis and Heinz Vogel, which won nine straight six-day victories. The team of Ignat and Ditch recently prevailed in Chicago.

The victory Torchy had had the misfortune to be teamed with a much weaker partner, as the best grandstanding and toothy smile made him a favorite with the crowd.

Torchy Peden, flashing his famous smile, gets ready to go in another six-day bike race.

The Race To Nowhere
Peden is one of the highest skilled performers in the sport, which is another proof of his popularity. Back in 1922, when preliminary arrangements were being made for a grand in Cleveland, Peden was found barnstorming in Berlin.

Boarding ship he set sail for America, arranged for a plane to meet him 500 miles out at sea, and he landed in New York, and hopped off for Cleveland. He arrived there at 11 o'clock before the race started.

Torchy has been developing his younger brother, Doug, and recently rode with him in the Chicago grandstand. The younger, a star amateur, is coming on fast, and it won't be long before they are riding regularly for a grand in Cleveland.

Then it's look out, Killian and Vogel, Torchy declares.

Plenty of Stamina
The fellow is a horse for work. In 1923 he won five races in nine weeks, and when you consider the fact that a bike rider can on an average of only 2 1/2 hours sleep a day, when in a grind, you realize what a strain it is on his physical make-up.

Veteran Lorne Chabot in Nets for New York As Red Wings Grasp One Game Lead Over Rangers—Ted Graham Scored Two

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Detroit Red Wings stepped out into uncharted first place in the National Hockey League's United States section last night as they handed a 4-2 defeat to the weakened New York Americans. The win broke Detroit's tie with New York Rangers.

Three thousand fans, the smallest attendance of the local season, saw the Americans take their seventh straight defeat.

In front of Lorne Chabot, veteran netminder who replaced the injured Roy Worters, they managed to hold the Wings even only for the first period.

In addition to Chabot, the Americans had a second round goal by Harvey in the Ouelin Cup. A goal by Ted Graham, called from New Haven of the International League.

TOOK EARLY LEAD
Redwings took the lead early in the second period when Chabot was on goal.

By Marty Barry and Eddie Goodenough. Teddy Graham, New York defenseman, put his team in the running in the last two minutes of the period, but the Wings clinched.

High-Riding Habits Score 4-1 Victory Over Maple Leafs
MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—Montreal's high-riding Canadians opened up a 4-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs last night by defeating the third-place Leafs 4-1 in a hard-fought game before some 6,500 fans.

The Flying Frenchmen spoiled the Leafs' early lead when they scored a goal before the Wings.

Jack Johnson, Detroit's star forward, scored a goal in the second period, but the Wings held on to their lead.

CHAPTER XXIII

Bob discarded Betty's advice to save his matches and drew a cigarette lighter from his pocket. He lit it and the tiny flame showed the relief and hope in the girl's face. For a moment he forgot everything else, as he drew her to him. Then the fact that they were in an underground prison, being held there for some mysterious reason, came back with crushing force. Bob got to his feet and, with Betty's aid, hobbled painfully about the small room which they were in. Nothing but the dust of ages and bare adobe walls met their eyes. Beyond a doorway, a faint light shone from a crack in the wall. Betty, looking at the wall with interest, "Too bad the light didn't leave a clue or something behind, huh?"

The only light seemed to be a low tunnel, barely high enough for a man to crawl through. "Her old man wasn't taking any chances, was he?" Bob grinned. "Hold the lighter, Betty. I'm going to take a look. We can't sit in this art gallery forever. I'd much rather march than walk with my man back."

While she held the light, Bob started into the little tunnel which, almost at once, began to pitch sharply downward. He struck a match to see where he was going. The colors and design smelted together, and Betty, behind him, "I'd go any place rather than stay alone again. Here's the lighter. It seems to have gone out. Maybe you can fix it."

But the lighter evidently had exhausted its fuel, for repeated snapping of the flint brought no results.

"Six matches left," Bob announced. "Are you game to go out? There must be some end to this."

"Go on," Betty said.

"A puppy biscuit for your thoughts!"

answered, though her voice shook a little.

Several minutes of carefully feeling their way along the musty tunnel, a distinctly fresh current of air came to them from beyond. Bob struck one of the precious matches and peered ahead.

"We're coming out of this," he told the girl, "I can see the opening a little further on." He started forward again.

Suddenly he stopped, drawing her close to him, and whispered, "A light! I just saw it. You'd better stay here while I do the scouting. No use telling the world where we are. If they're after us, let 'em worry a while."

Betty agreed and Bob crept away. She waited a minute, straining her eyes into the darkness, then decided that nothing would be better than being trapped in this stifling place and rapidly followed him, a feeling of panic gripping her. Now she could hear footsteps. The next minute she collided with Bob's head.

"I had to come on," she breathed, as he twisted around.

His fingers on her lips was his only response, and Betty realized that he had come to an opening into a large room of some sort, a room that could be glimpsed faintly by the light from a single candle above their heads. A man was kneeling on the floor of the room, his hands moving rapidly as though he were uncovering something. They watched curiously. It was impossible to tell who the man was, but Betty's mind held no doubt on that score.

Pearl John de Forest held the answer to the riddle of the place, and Bob still had a lengthy sojourn to make with that young man. Hardly daring to breathe, Bob and Betty watched the dim figure carefully, watching the dim figure carefully.

Suddenly their attention was caught by a sound from the opposite side. Someone else was coming into the room. Closer and closer stealthy footsteps crept past the door, but the man on the floor was too engrossed in what he was doing to notice.

Bob and Betty exchanged a glance, and Betty's mind held no doubt on that score. Pearl John de Forest held the answer to the riddle of the place, and Bob still had a lengthy sojourn to make with that young man. Hardly daring to breathe, Bob and Betty watched the dim figure carefully, watching the dim figure carefully.

Suddenly their attention was caught by a sound from the opposite side. Someone else was coming into the room. Closer and closer stealthy footsteps crept past the door, but the man on the floor was too engrossed in what he was doing to notice.

Before she could reply, he thrust them into her hand, pulled himself from the tunnel and away to his feet. Bob edged up into his place so that she could see what was going on. Was it the Indian guard who was fighting with de Forest on the floor? Over and over they waited and rolled, first one on top, then the other. The candle light threw weird, dancing shadows on all the scene as the man's arms rose and fell in smashing blows. It was all over in a moment.

Betty turned away with a shudder. It was primitive, brutal. She had never supposed man could fight with such animal ferocity. Then, at a movement from Bob, she leaped forward, again to see what was happening. Both the fighters were on their feet now, as though an umpire had intervened, and were circling round and round, waiting for an opening. The Indian was facing her, but the other man's back was toward her. As she watched the candle was knocked from its place on a shelf on one wall, and went out.

The darkness gripped the place made the mad struggle all the more horrible, and Bob, with his injured leg, was out there, too. At any minute they might kill him. Betty thought wildly that he must do something. What would anything in the world matter if he should be—? She crawled out of the hole and, feeling her way along the wall, started toward the place where she had seen the candle drop. If she could get it lit again, at least she could have a glimpse of the men who had been fighting. She reached the floor. Then the stub of the candle in her hand flared out again. That instant Bob sprang upon the man beside him, and Betty saw them go down, fighting furiously as they fell. The Indian rushed toward her. With a cry she sprang back, still clutching the candle. If she touched her she could at least thrust the flame into his face. She had never been so close to death, and, to her utter amazement, she found that all terror had left her.

"Back! Stay back!" she heard herself shouting but Broken should not seem to hear. He was looking, instead, at something he had noticed from the little shelf.

Then she saw what it was—the obidian knife! Betty shut her eyes, a sudden feeling of nausea coming over her. That hideous knife that already had killed two men. Who would be strike de Forest or Bob? Her hands clenched into hard fists. She felt the candle break, but she pressed forward. She must see, must were shot about that knife.

But Bob was too busy to pay attention to any kind of warning. Slowly but surely, his antagonist was pushing him back, back toward the farther wall. Bob's head and back was buckling under him, and he was forced to hop awkwardly on his good foot, as he desperately gave back blow for blow.

"Bob, look out!" Betty screamed. "Here's got a knife!" Holding out the candle at arm's length, she tried to see what was going on in the darkness.

Pounding fists, crunching against bone and muscle, was all she could distinguish. Oh, would it never end! She must wake up and find it had all been a hideous nightmare. Now the Indian was going to strike. For a moment she had a glimpse of the man who was fighting Bob, turning and looking up at the obidian knife above his head.

Then came the swift downward dash of Broken's body. Betty saw the man in front of Bob, then, then crumpled his knees. He was down and that black thing was in his neck.

Betty caught her breath. She felt as though she were smothering, and her own knees suddenly refused to hold her weight. She, too, was falling down into a soft darkness that due to clutch her.
